Adorable Pets Looking for Loving Homes Featured at Unveiling Event

February 6, 2014, NEW YORK - Animal Care & Control of NYC (AC&C) has identified the first pets to initiate its new Mobile Adoption Center. The inaugural adoption event will take place on Sunday, February 9th at Union Square Park North Plaza, located at E. 17th Street between Broadway and Park Avenue South, with a press conference at 11:00 a.m. to unveil the state-of-the-art van.

AC&C is sending an enticing selection of cats and dogs, representing the hundreds available for adoption at its shelters, to the event.

For New Yorkers seeking new love this Valentine's Day, these cats and dogs promise to be irresistible. Adopters will receive a treat-filled gift bag as well as some sweet animal kisses.

Pompadour is an approximately 11-week-old Australian Cattle Dog mix who will be on the inaugural ride of the AC&C Mobile Adoption Center.

Pompadour said, "It'll take a major snowstorm to keep me away from meeting my future family this weekend! I am buffed and puffed and ready to roll!"

Free Agent is another lucky dog who will be looking for his perfect match this coming Sunday in time for Valentine's Day.

”The new Mobile Adoption Center will be a great way for me and all the cool cats on-board to find a New Yorker who can offer unconditional love,” added Free Agent. “Be there or be square!”

Asked for a comment, Cindy, a cream tabby kitten, was sleeping at the time. Her AC&C foster caregiver did say she will be batting her eyes and purring enthusiastically during the adoption event to bring shelter dogs and cats to previously unreachable New Yorkers looking to adopt throughout the five boroughs.
